WELCOME

After a successful edition in 2018, we are back for a second time in Nice on the 17th and 18th of September 2020.

LIVe2020 intends to be a unique exchange platform for scientists interested in in vitro respiratory researches, stakeholders from academia, pharma, biotech, chemical, tobacco, consumer goods, medical devices industries, CROs and regulatory agencies.

The meeting focuses on predictive in vitro lung models designed for basic research, efficacy and toxicity testing. It aims to present the state-of-art of in vitro lung models, and to map out the route for its future development and use.

CONFERENCES

1. Modeling COPD/Asthma/IPF and CF in vitro
2. Infectious diseases
3. Lung cancer
4. Inhalation toxicity testing
5. Exposure devices
6. Chips and interconnections
7. Think different
